PrivatAir Commenced Operations On The Stavanger - Houston Route On Behalf Of SAS

On August 20, 2014, PrivatAir commenced a new business-class-only airline service between Stavanger and Houston on behalf of SAS, under a “wet lease” agreement. The route operates 6 days per week (every day except Tuesday).

"PrivatAir introduced long-haul business class only flights in 2002 using extended range narrow body aircraft," says Greg Thomas, President and CEO of PrivatAir. "The concept proved to be highly successful and over the years we have operated such flights on numerous routes on behalf of several major European airlines. We operate the aircraft on an ACMI (Aircraft, Crew, Maintenance and Insurance) basis, offering our partner airlines a low-risk, cost-effective and flexible way to respond rapidly to demand. We are now honoured to count SAS as our partner on the new all-business-class Stavanger-Houston route and are proud to be able to bring our experience and service to their customers."

The scheduled service is operated by a Boeing 737-700 in SAS livery, with 44 business class seats available on board. Passengers are treated to the full Business Class concept, with spacious seats, a modern in-flight entertainment system, excellent service and luxury catering. In addition to this distinctive club-like atmosphere, there is the advantage of this being a direct flight, making it extremely time-efficient for passengers.
